Lower middle quartile	14.29	85.71
Lower quartile	20.00	80.00

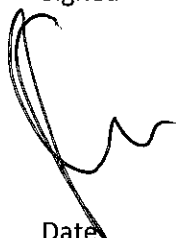

This shows a relatively proportionate split between male and female employees at each level within the pay scale when compared to the overall split of 21% males and 79% females.

Conclusions and Resultant actions:

Porthaven Care Homes No 2 Limited does have a gender pay gap. The gender pay gap is largely driven by the fact that the proportion of men in higher-paid roles is higher than the proportion of men in lower paid roles, a pattern common to most of the UK. This is particularly due to the nature of the business and the higher number of care workers in the Company, the majority of whom are women. However, the Company mitigates this by having roles graded with a standard pay rate, with men and women being paid equal rates for a particular role within each of the Homes.

I, John Storey, Chief Executive, confirm that the information in this statement is accurate.
